

Did you know?

IPWA PLC is Trading On The NASDAQ OTC Securities Exchange

Q&A

Slide for more ↓

Q1

Shareholder

I thought IPWA PLC was delisted and my shares were worthless?

NASD Support

IPWA PLC was delisted from the NGX and were subsequently admitted to trading on the NASD OTC Securities Exchange in 2023. Shareholders still retain ownership of their units.

Slide for more ↓

Q2

Shareholder

How do I see my shares? I don't have paper certificates.

NASD Support

The market operates on a fully dematerialized system. Your shares are held electronically in your CSCS account and remain registered in your name with the company's registrar.

Slide for more ↓

Q3

Shareholder

How can I trade these shares on NASD?

NASD Support

Contact your stockbroker, a registered NASD Participating Institution, to migrate your shares through the registrar. The registrar of IPWA is Greenwich Registrars and Data Solutions. Once the migration is complete, you can trade the shares on the NASD platform.

Slide for more ↓

Q4

Shareholder

Is the company still in business?

NASD Support

Yes. IPWA PLC has resumed active operations and continues to operate within the marine and industrial protective coatings segment of the paint industry.

Slide for more ↓

Email marketoperations@nasdng.com for more answers to questions you might have about IPWA or any other security on the NASD OTC Exchange